Art Carney plays the oldest member of the class of '85 (1985, that is) in The Disney Channel's newest comedy hit, "The Undergrads," co-starring teen idol Chris Makepeace. This movie reflects our continued commitment to produce quality programs especially for you.

ART CARNEY STARS AS A COLLEGE FRESHMAN IN "THE UNDERGRADS"

Art Carney lights up The Disney Channel this month as Mel Adler, a frisky 68-year-old who fulfills his lifelong dream of going to college, in "The Undergrads" (see page 8). Mel's ready for school, but is school ready for him? Carney gives you the answers in a performance to rival his Oscar-winning portrayal of a retired teacher in "Harry and Tonto." Yet although the role of Mel Adler was written with him in mind, Carney almost turned it down.

"I don't know what you want me for. This is George Burns' part," he told producer/director Steven Stern after "Once in a while though, something comes along that I want to take a shot at, and I do it." One such was "The Undergrads," a made-for-The Disney Channel movie.

reading the script. Stern agreed that Burns was wonderful, "but he's very low key, and it would be kind of gimmicky if he went back to college."

"So my agent asked me to reread the script, which I did," Carney says. "I decided they were right and I was wrong. It was my type of role, and I liked the humor and warmth of it."

"The Undergrads" fared so well that Carney signed for a second Disney Channel movie, "Blue Yonder," now in production. He plays a former flying ace of the Lindbergh era. But for all his professional exposure, Carney shies away from publicity about himself.

"To be honest, I don't like to be interviewed," he good-naturedly told a Disney Channel Magazine writer during a telephone conversation. "I get tied up, and groping for words, and all of a sudden my memory fails me sometimes. I never know how the thing will turn out."

"The thing" usually turns out nicely, with Carney's interviewers expressing warm opinions of their subject. But along the way, attempting to describe him, they note that he's a loner, quiet, shy, an introvert at heart, a difficult communicator, a happy hypochondriac, given to chronic depression. As these words are repeated to him, Carney laughs between each one.

"I am introverted by nature," he admits. "I'm not a gregarious, outgoing person. Never have been, for some reason or other. I guess my extrovert qualities come out in my work. About the chronic depression, I wouldn't say I'm depressed all the time. I have my moments when I get a little down in the dumps. But everybody does, and I'm not too much of a mixer. As I've gotten older I'm enjoying my home (in Westbrook, Conn.) with my wife and kids and six grandchildren. I'm now 66 and getting lazier by the week. Once in a while though, something comes along that I want to take a shot at, and I do it."

"The Undergrads," a comedy drama brimming with life and love, casts Carney in a familiar role as a likable old codger.

"My first real break in motion pictures was 'Harry and Tonto.' I was fortunate enough to win an Oscar for that one," he explains. "At the time—let's see—I was in my fifties, and playing a retired school teacher of 72. At first I turned it down. I didn't know whether I'd be believable. But I tackled it, and it did a lot of good things for me. I went on to play an over-the-hill private eye in 'The Late Show,' which to my way of thinking was one of the best jobs I've ever done. I played an old bank robber in 'Going in Style.' I played old men in 'A Doctor's Story,' 'You Can't Take It With You' and 'The Night They Saved Christmas' on TV. And I've just done a 'Love Boat' with Lucille Ball.

"I get a lot of calls for these elderly parts."

Carney began his career in 1937 as a mimic, a side-act entertainer with Horace Heidt's big band. His movie debut came in 1941 when Heidt and the band appeared with James Stewart and Paulette Goddard in "Pot O' Gold." He moved into radio, and after a stint in the army, into the burgeoning (1948) TV industry. In 1951 he bowed on Jackie Gleason's show as Ed Norton, a lovable slob, in a sketch entitled "The Honeymooners." For 20 years Art Carney was identified with that character in the minds, eyes, and even the hearts of television audiences.

But although he had won five Emmys by the early 1970s, and had starred in vaudeville, radio, and five Broadway shows, Carney wanted to act in motion pictures. Three years after the final airing of "The Honeymooners" series in 1971, he launched himself in "Harry and Tonto." Which brings us more or less up to date.

"And right now I've got nothing to report," he says. "I'll go back to Westbrook when I finish 'Blue Yonder.' I'll get up in the morning, go uptown, get the papers, come back and have breakfast. Then, if she wants something, I'll do a few errands for my wife. By then it'll be time for lunch.

"I love that place of ours. We're right on the beach on Long Island Sound. It's a summer house which we rented in '55, bought in '56, and winterized for year-round living. I don't do much around there except rake the lawn once in a while. I'm very good at doing nothing. I'm a great loafer.

"My first real break in motion pictures was 'Harry and Tonto.' I was fortunate enough to win an Oscar for that one."

"I spend a lot of time with the family, do my share of baby sitting and getting the grandkids to and from school.

"An actor doesn't have to live in Hollywood or New York anymore to keep working. At least I don't. The longest I spent in New York City was about 10 years. Every so often I thought I was getting used to it, then I realized how much I disliked it. The city is just too busy, and it costs you a fortune in cab fare just to get around.

"My agent sends me two or three scripts to read during the month. If I get a call to go to California, I drive up to Hartford which is an hour away, and get on a plane. We're not really lost in the woods out there." 🐻

IMPROVED SCHEDULING

Beginning Monday, May 6th, you'll see some exciting improvements in Disney Channel programming!

After reviewing your many comments and suggestions, we have revised the Channel's scheduling for the convenience of every family member.

Weekly morning shows have been rearranged to better accommodate both school-age children and pre-schoolers. Your small fry can start each weekday with "The Mickey Mouse Club," and continue to enjoy seven more half hour programs until 10:00 A.M. (Eastern Standard Time).

6:00	Mickey Mouse Club
6:30	Mousercise
7:00	Good Morning, Mickey!

Then, you'll notice that we have separated your two morning movies with a new noon hour "Lunch Break" program. A second movie, such as "The Undergrads," begins at 1:00 P.M. (EST).

"Undergrads" bridges the generation gap

"Wonderful World of Disney" airs daily

At 3:00 P.M. (EST), youngsters returning from school will find their favorite programs ready and waiting for them. We have reorganized the late afternoon/early evening time period with programs that everyone in your family can enjoy. At 5:30 (EST) we've scheduled an hour-long show on "The Wonderful World of Disney." An episode in the warmly-remembered but new-to-The Disney Channel comedy series, "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," precedes the 7:00 o'clock family feature. "Mouseterpiece Theater" leads into prime time weeknight movies starting at 9:00 P.M. (EST).

Weekends will bring you an outstanding selection of movies and specials from the Disney Studio and other producers. You may look forward to titles like "South Pacific," "The Bridge on the River Kwai," "The 39 Steps" and "Oklahoma!"

Our commitment to provide you with the best in family entertainment is a cornerstone of The Disney Channel. We are particularly pleased by the way we've been able to enhance one of your top-voted shows, "Donald Duck Presents." Now, besides Disney cartoons, the show will also include fine cartoons from other studios plus animated short subjects from the Disney Educational Film Library and sequences from Disney animated classics.

Also, on May 6th, we're premiering "Dumbo's Circus," our own children's series created exclusively for The Disney Channel. Meet a procession of puppet-ronic performers, led by the little elephant with the king-sized ears who is now the proprietor of a traveling tent show.

Your letters tell us how much you enjoy action-adventure movies on the Channel. So, starting this month, we are bringing you "Disney's Legends and Heroes," a new Friday evening serial containing such adventure classics as "The Swamp Fox," "Elfego Baca" and "Zorro."

Here, then, is our revised calendar. We hope you find it useful and convenient when planning your daily Disney Channel viewing. 🐘

Mickey Rooney Outrivals Mickey Mouse

Hard to believe, but Mickey Rooney's been around longer than Mickey Mouse. By the time the Mouse made his movie debut in 1928, the Mick was already an eight-year-old veteran of vaudeville and two-reel comedies. The Mouse went on to star in 121 films; the Mick has made almost 200 of them. They have grown older and plumper together, but unlike Mickey Mouse, Mickey Rooney has been married eight times, has made and lost a couple of fortunes, and continues to keep more irons in the fire than the village blacksmith.

The 5-foot-3 Napoleon of show business, whom you'll see on The Disney Channel this month in "Pete's Dragon," is presently completing his fifth year of touring the country in a musical memory of burlesque called "Sugar Babies."

"Then we'll take it abroad," Rooney said during a telephone interview. "Meanwhile I have Mickey Rooney's Delicious to worry about, and an update autobiography to write."

Rooney's Delicious is the newest of various non-theatrical ventures to which Mickey has lent his name. This one's a restaurant in Fort Lee where, he said, he brings "California gourmet taste to New Jersey." The menu includes Elizabeth Taylor Chili, Claudette Coleslaw and Lana Tunafish. If all goes well, he'll launch Rooney's Delicious nationwide.

Mickey wrote and published his life story in 1965. "But," he said, "a lot has happened since then." For one thing, his career began flourishing again after a downswing that started when he left MGM, his home studio, in 1948. With awesome self-confidence, he formed his own production company and promptly went broke. The next several years were a struggle. In 1962 he filed for bankruptcy, revealing he had nothing left of $12 million he'd earned. However, by the mid-1960s, when his book ends, he was back in stride as a character actor.

In 1976 Rooney commenced a three-year stint at the Disney Studio. Oddly, he never knew Walt, although Disney figured in his childhood. "Walt was a friend of my mother," he said. "I was six, and doing the Mickey McGuire comedies. There was a little studio down the street from where we lived, and my mother used to talk with a young fellow there who was making animated cartoons. His name was Walt Disney." Mickey finally got around to working for the company when he was cast as a tipsy lighthouse keeper in "Pete's Dragon." In 1977 Mickey supplied the voice of Tod the fox in Walt Disney Productions' animated feature, "The Fox and the Hound." The following year, after completing "Donovan's Kid" for the studio, Mickey announced his retirement from acting. Hardly anybody took him seriously though, and within a year he was back at work. Now he is picking up his pen to cover events in his life over the past two decades.

"I've been married to Jan Stephenson, a singer, for 10 years," he said. "I have 10 children and two grandchildren. I'm a churchgoer, and I lead a Christian life. I'm a non-smoker and non-drinker. I am writing about a new and different Mickey Rooney." 🐉

WELCOME TO "DUMBO'S CIRCUS"

An All-New Cast Of Puppetronic Stars

Where do ideas for TV series come from? According to Peggy Christianson and Pam Hansen, key members of our program development department, the origin of "Dumbo's Circus" (see page 13) can be traced to a snowbound taxicab in Canada.

"Peggy and I were attending a meeting in Toronto when our cab got caught in the worst snowstorm in 40 years," Pam says. "There we were, stranded in bumper-to-bumper traffic on the freeway. To pass the time, we began coming up with ideas for a children's series, something on the order of 'Welcome to Pooh Corner' which could feature characters created expressly for The Disney Channel.

"We agreed that circuses were highly popular with kids. We remembered that Walt Disney had at one time put a circus in Disneyland. We knew that Dumbo was a beloved and recognizable cartoon character. By the time we got back to the hotel 3½ hours later, we had the idea for 'Dumbo's Circus' clearly in mind."

Upon returning from Toronto, Peggy and Pam brought in Ken Anderson and Bob Moore, both veteran Disney artists, to design the characters. The stars of the little big top would be Dumbo, who flies his traveling circus from place to place in a gypsy wagon; Lionel, an inventive lion and Dumbo's sidekick; Barnaby, a bumbling clown dog determined to be a magician; Lilli, a glamorous high-wire cat; Q.T., a weight-lifting orangutan and master of the steam calliope; Sebastian, a lazy, scheming alley cat; and Fair Dinkum, the ringmaster koala. Anderson and Moore spent many hours and threw away countless sketches before arriving at the final delineation of those animal performers.

The job of bringing them to life was handed to producer Frank Brandt, who had overseen the construction of the puppetronic cast of "Welcome to Pooh Corner."

"We gave the sketches to sculptors, costumers, technicians and machinists who would turn them into full-sized, three-dimensional puppetronic figures,"

Brandt says. "These new characters are the ultimate in state-of-the-art technology. They are costumes, made of soft foam, with built-in electronic circuitry. When worn by actors equipped with special receivers, they are capable of an astonishing range of gestures and facial expressions. This combination of human movements and electronic activation is called puppetronics. And it's puppetronics that brings Dumbo and his circus performers to life on camera."

As a cartoon character, Dumbo never spoke. In this new series however, the blue-eyed elephant with the outsized ears is never at a loss for words, thanks to a vocal artist named Katie Leigh.

"And now that he can talk, Dumbo is able to lead his circus troupe on merry adventures where the accent is on comedy, music, and lively entertainment," Pam says.

"In future shows they'll visit fanciful places like Land of the Giants and Candyland, and meet all kinds of odd people, some of whom speak only in rhyme and others who speak only in jokes." ♥

WORLD TELEVISION PREMIERE!

THE UNDERGRADS

Movie starring Art Carney, Chris Makepeace, Len Birman, Lesleh Donaldson, Jackie Burroughs, Alfie Scopp, Dawn Greenhall

From the pleased and grateful welcome you've given other made-for-The Channel movies like "Love Leads the Way" and "Lots of Luck," we know you appreciate quality films which the whole family can enjoy. So we're proud to bring you the world television premiere of our latest Disney Channel production, "The Undergrads." This story of family love spanning the generations is guaranteed to win your laughs while warming your heart. It's a movie you'll want to see again and again.

When sprightly sexagenarian (68 on weekdays, 29 on weekends and holidays!) Mel Adler (Art Carney) is consigned to a rest home by his son Verne (Len Birman), his 18-year-old grandson Jody (Chris Makepeace) decides to rescue him.

Jody's plan includes sharing an apartment with Mel while attending college. But his grandpa has bigger ideas. Although Mel enjoys "writing current dates on old photos of myself," what he really wants is a college diploma—and he enrolls alongside his grandson to get one!

The unctemporary pals face two major problems. One is money—or lack of it! And then there's grades. Mel must maintain a C average in order to stay in school—and though he's "all hearing aid" in class, his never-too-sharp study skills have virtually rusted away.

Despite these hurdles, the two "undergrads" settle into their student pad and cheerfully face the challenges of campus life, from a steady diet of raisin bran to the complexities of romance and the quirks of strict professors.

Art Carney as 68-year-old Mel Adler turns the campus topsy-turvy when he decides to become a college freshman

Then Mel gets into some extracurricular trouble—and it looks like this undergrad will turn into a dropout.

Art Carney, whose sensitive portrayal of a young-at-heart elder in "Harry and Tonto" won him an Oscar, shines in the wisecracking role of Mel. He is seconded by Chris Makepeace, who was acclaimed for his acting in "My Bodyguard," "Meatballs," and "Falcon and the Snowman." (101 min.)

THE CHANNEL'S CHOICE

Several movies stand out this month as meriting your special attention.

PRIME TIME PROGRAMS WITH ADULT APPEAL

"The Inn of the Sixth Happiness"

Ingrid Bergman stars in this inspiring film about the triumph of human spirit over incredible adversity. It is based on the life of Gladys Aylward, a Christian missionary in China who became a war-time heroine. It is also a fine adventure story, as we're sure you will agree.

"Karlchen"

A little boy lost in Nazi Germany shortly before World War II is the theme of this thriller. An 11-year-old is separated from his mother, and the dreaded Gestapo is after them both. There are breathtaking surprises as the net draws tighter.

PROGRAMS FOR CHILDREN

"Jiminy Cricket Presents Bongo"

An animated classic from the feature-length "Fun and Fancy Free," this musical saga of Bongo, a lovelorn circus bear, is based on a story by Nobel prize winner Sinclair Lewis.

WORLD TELEVISION PREMIERE!

The Devil and Max Devlin

Movie starring Elliott Gould, Bill Cosby, Susan Anspach, Adam Rich, Julie Budd, Sonny Shroyer, David Knell

This devil-may-care comedy will warm your heart and ignite your laughter!

Business is bad in Hades—so the Devil's left-hand man, Barney Satin (Bill Cosby), makes a hot deal with new arrival Max Devlin (Elliott Gould). Max can save his soul if he gets three innocents to sign theirs away!

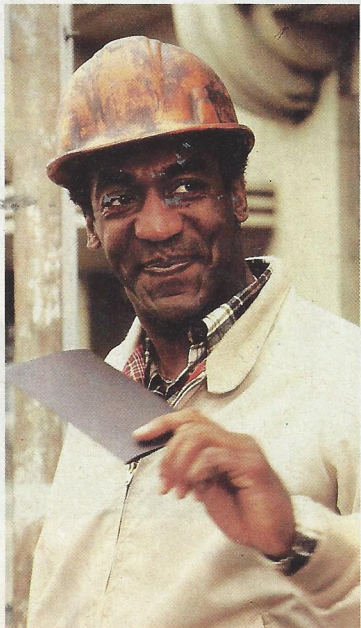

His targets for temptation are 26-year-old Stella Summers (Julie Budd), an aspiring rock singer; teenager Nelson Nordlinger (David Knell), a "nerd" who wants to be a motocross champ; and 12-year-old Toby Hart (Adam Rich), a lonely boy who has been looking for a father.

Everything's going according to plan until Max falls in love with Toby's mother (Susan Anspach) and marries her. Now Max is really getting hot under the collar: he can save his soul only by sending the three "temptees" he now loves to eternal perdition!

Two musical numbers enliven this production. Marvin Hamlisch, winner of four Grammys, three Oscars, two Golden Globes, and a Pulitzer Prize, composed "Roses and Rainbows" and "Any Fool Could See" for the film. Julie Budd, whom Hamlisch considers "a big talent," performs these rousing rock 'n' roll tunes. (95 min.)

The Bridge on the River Kwai

Movie starring Alec Guinness, William Holden, Jack Hawkins, Sessue Hayakawa, James Donald

All the irony and futility of war as well as the courage sometimes inspired in men is captured in this Academy Award winner directed by David Lean, whose recent film, "Passage to India" has garnered critical acclaim.

Based on a best-selling book by Pierre Boulle about an actual World War II incident, the movie revolves around the building of a strategic railroad bridge in the jungles of Thailand.

For three men, the bridge becomes the focal point of their conflicts between military goals and personal desires. Colonel Saito (Sessue Hayakawa) is the commander of the Japanese prison camp who must complete the work on time or face dishonor. Colonel Nicholson (Alec Guinness in an Oscar-winning performance), is a captured officer, who views the bridge as a symbol of British pride.

Commander Shears (William Holden) is a cynical American prisoner whose primary goal is to escape.

After a torturous battle of wills, Nicholson wrests control of construction from Saito. However, as Nicholson works, his original objectives are overshadowed. He becomes a man obsessed. All sense of duty and loyalty erode in him until a final confrontation culminates in an intense moment of revelation. (161 min.)

The film premiered 33,000 feet above earth on Continental Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Eastern, Pan Am, and United Airlines. ANSWER: EWMSNA

Pete's Dragon

Movie starring Helen Reddy, Mickey Rooney, Jim Dale, Red Buttons, Shelley Winters, Sean Marshall

Put some brazzle-dazzle brilliance into your day with this musical, magical mixture of live-action and animation! You'll be spellbound by the enchanting escapades of a nine-year-old orphan, Pete (Sean Marshall), and his 20 x 40-foot, fantastical firebreathing friend—Elliott the dragon!

To escape from his monstrously mean foster parents, Lena and Merle Gogan (Shelley Winters, Charles Tyner), Pete flees to a nearby town with his often invisible dragon pal. Here the boy is befriended by Nora (Helen Reddy) and her father Lampie (Mickey Rooney), a tippling lighthouse keeper.

But before Pete can enjoy his new "family," Elliott has a medical problem: Doc Terminus (Jim Dale), a travelling quack, wants to make healing potions out of his innards! When the malpractising doctor hooks up with the maleficent Gogans, the result is a fiendish dragon trap—baited with a boy!

Songs cast a spell in this delightful dragon "tail." You'll be enchanted by singer Helen Reddy's haunting rendition of "Candle on the Water," an Academy Award nominee, and Reddy, Rooney, and Marshall's rousing chorus of "Brazzle Dazzle Day" as they trip on a lighthouse ledge! (128 min.)

The Inn of the Sixth Happiness

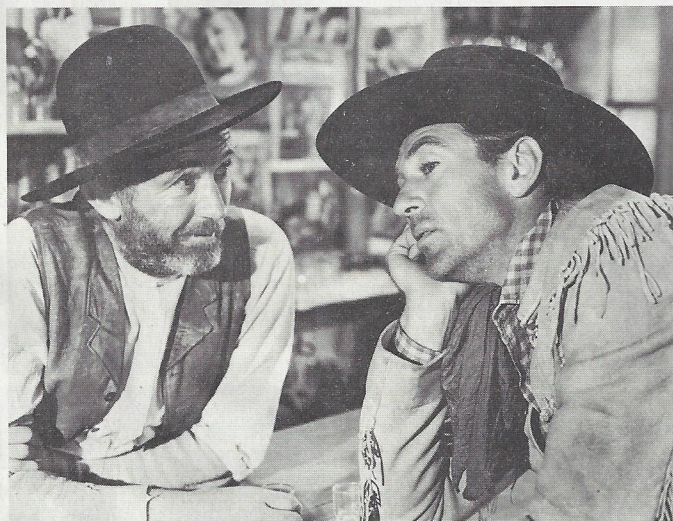

Movie starring Ingrid Bergman

You'll be touched by this true story of a gentle, yet courageous English missionary (Ingrid Bergman) who brings her message of peace and love to China of the 1930s. With World War II looming ever closer, she loses her heart to a Chinese army officer (Curt Jurgens), then must leave him to guide a group of Chinese children to safety. Robert Donat makes his final screen appearance as a mandarin converted to Christianity. (155 min.)

THE WESTERNER

Movie starring Gary Cooper, Walter Brennan, Doris Davenport, Dana Andrews

Walter Brennan tests his friendship with placid Gary Cooper

Here's the stuff great Westerns are made of—a strong silent hero, ruthless villain, plenty of action and a clear-cut confrontation between right and wrong!

Gary Cooper's in his element as wandering cowboy Cole Harden who agrees to lead West Texas homesteaders against the rapacious Judge Roy Bean (Walter Brennan) and his desperado cattlemen. In doing so, he must face Bean, a one-time friend, in a showdown that tests both men's courage, loyalty and conscience.

Walter Brennan's performance as the ruthless Judge Bean won him an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor in this film, which is now considered a classic in its genre. (100 min.)

Michael McGreevey and Billy Mumy feed Sammy salmon

Movie starring Jack Carson, Robert Culp, Ann Jillian

This comedy's sure to win your seal of approval. When Arthur and Petey Loomis (Michael McGreevey, Billy Mumy) rescue an injured seal and bring him home without their parents' knowledge, they're quickly over their heads in hot water.

Sammy's a disaster on flippers. Before anyone can stop this clown in a wet suit, he's crashed a fancy pool party, demolished a supermarket, helped himself to a neighbor's prized tropical fish collection, and turned the town upside down.

Faced with the townspeople's ire, the boys must reluctantly confront the facts: a seal's place is in the ocean. Now—if they can just get him there! (89 min.)

KARLCHEN

Exclusive movie starring Katja Pargla, Olaf Schmechel, Rosemarie Barhold

Thrill to this suspenseful drama which pits a young child against the all-powerful Gestapo during Hitler's rise to power.

When the Gestapo tracks down Mrs. Brunner (Katja Pargla), a member of the anti-Hitler underground, she must flee immediately, leaving her young son Karlchen (Olaf Schmechel) behind. Gestapo members hope the boy will lead them to his mother, but he escapes their surveillance and hides out as a servant on a Nazi leader's estate.

Mrs. Brunner devises a plan to recover her son. But by then, the Gestapo has discovered Karlchen's whereabouts — and is closing in again!

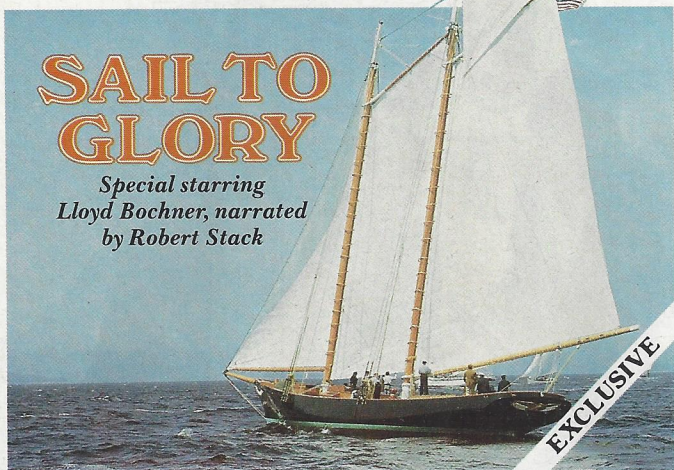

Produced in Germany, the film recreates the look and feel of Europe prior to World War II. (91 min.)

DUMBO'S CIRCUS

Series

All you moms, dads and other adults looking for wholesome, uplifting programming for your preschoolers will welcome "Dumbo's Circus" — The Disney Channel's newest addition. We've designed it in the tradition of "Welcome to Pooh Corner" to meet your wish for more quality TV viewing for children. It's a charmer you won't want them to miss.

Each show sparkles with lively tunes and as much color as a circus grand finale. A sideshow of tricks and jokes caps every episode.

Youngsters will love the cast of original puppetronic characters created especially for this program. There's Dumbo the adorable flying elephant, Barnaby the magician dog, Fair Dinkum the ringmaster koala, Q.T. the calliope-playing orangutan, Lilli the feline tightrope artist, Sebastian the roustabout alley cat, and Lionel the sideshow barker lion.

Every weekday these happy troupers present a light-hearted story. This month Dumbo wishes he were a different size in "Dumbolina." Then Barnaby's magic backfires, shrinking the little elephant. In "The Long Walk," Dumbo forgets how to fly, and the circus folk have to use their imaginations — and their feet — to get to the next town by showtime. "Barnaby's Magic Coat" finds Barnaby momentarily forgetting some crucial words at an important point.

START A FRIDAY NIGHT VIEWING TRADITION!

Disney's LEGENDS and HEROES

Series

When our armchair adventurers write us, they request one particular title over and over—"The Swamp Fox." So we're delighted to announce that this excellent show about the legendary Revolutionary War exploits of Francis Marion will begin our new Friday night series. The episodes will be aired in color for the first time. Each is paired with a sequence from "Zorro."

Driven into hiding by the British, Marion forms his troop of raiders in "The Birth of the Swamp Fox" (starting May 3). In "Presenting Señor Zorro," Diego Vega dons his mask and cape to crusade against the unjust Spanish Capitan Monasterio.

On May 10, the Swamp Fox faces bitter confrontations between Patriot and Tory sympathizers in "Brother Against Brother." His tricks are matched by those of the mysterious cloaked avenger in "Zorro's Secret Passage."

The death of his young brother at Tory hands fills the Swamp Fox with desire for "Tory Vengeance" on May 17.

Meanwhile "Zorro Rides to the Mission" to free imprisoned Indians.

"The Day of Reckoning" on May 24 finds Marion's supplies dwindling. A daring raid is his only hope. Zorro too, must use all his cunning to free a neighbor unjustly imprisoned in "Ghost of the Mission."

The British set a deadly trap, using Marion's family as bait in "Redcoat Strategy" on May 31. In "Zorro's Romance," Don Diego fakes a proposal to a señorita to save her from Monasterio's distasteful advances.

FIVE MILE CREEK

Series starring

Louise Caire Clark, Rod Mullinar, Liz Burch,
Michael Caton, Peter Carroll, Martin Lewis, Gus Mercurio, Nicole Kidman, Shannon Presby, with Jay Kerr as Con Madigan

We're delighted that the audience for our Australian epic grows larger and more loyal every season! These two new episodes premiering this month won't disappoint you!

Visitors to the Five Mile homestead bring Jack Taylor (Rod Mullinar) nothing but misery this month. In "A Dog Called Johnson," starting May 1, Jack's indomitable mother pays a call and pressures him to marry Maggie (Louise Caire Clark). Mrs. Taylor's visit causes more serious problems when her dog is suspected of killing sheep—and the hostile Armstrongs threaten to shoot the dog on sight!

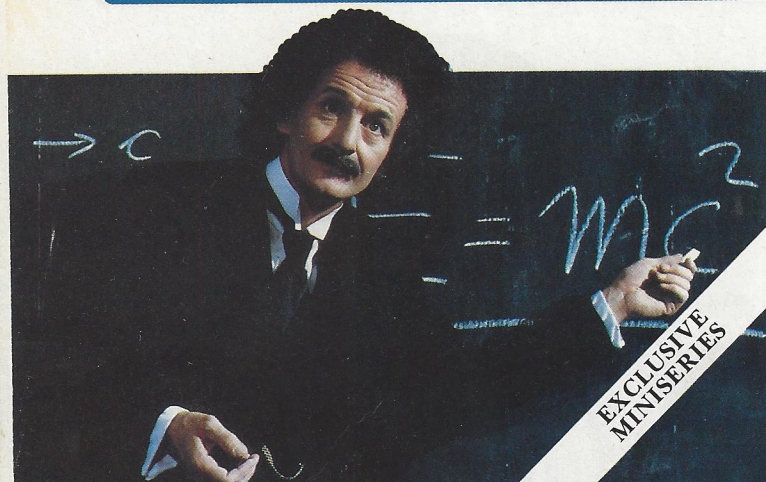

Sam (Martin Lewis) makes a pal of a dog named Johnson

In "Fish Out of Water," starting May 15, a charming Irish sea captain seems likely to sweep Maggie off her feet—much to Jack's dismay. Meanwhile, Sam's (Martin Lewis) pride in his new horse, Fireball, is shattered when his race against Matt's (Shannon Presby) prize steed has crippling results.

Editor's Note: The man identified as Shannon Presby on page 15 of the April issue is actually Scott McGregor.

Albert Einstein explains his revolutionary equation, $E=mc^2$

Einstein

Starring Ronald Pickup, Marie Dubois, Micaela Esdra

This enthralling story about the simple man who sparked a scientific revolution continues to unfold in "Genius," the second part of our highly-acclaimed biography.

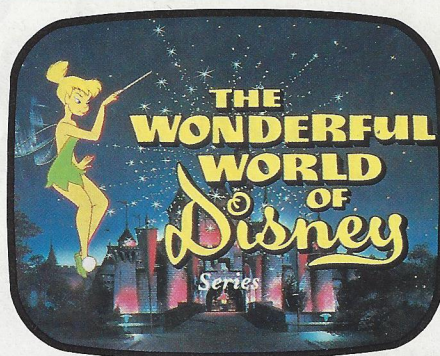

Not yet a famous figure, Albert Einstein struggles for a breakthrough in his theory of relativity. Careful observations of everyday life, such as the way children's marbles rattle through a workman's sieve, aid his efforts.

At last he arrives at his momentous equation, $E=mc^2$. The idea that matter can be converted into energy will ultimately change the world.

Meanwhile, tension in European politics is reaching the breaking point. As World War I looms near, Jewish leaders ask Einstein to join their struggle for a Zionist state. At the same time, he is ordered to sign a nationalist manifesto of German Scientists. Now this unpolitical man realizes that battle lines are being drawn—and he must take sides.

Enjoy a different program every weekday evening, one of which repeats Saturday afternoon. Then gather the gang together for your regular Sunday evening premiere! Look for Walt in eight features throughout the month.

Highlights of the May line up include "Jiminy Cricket Presents Bongo." Walt introduces the colorful cartoon tale of Bongo, a circus bear, who must learn the rules of bear courtship. Walt also presents "Race for Survival." Lost on the East African plains, a greyhound forms an unusual alliance with an aging lion. "A Ranger's Guide To Nature" combines animation, live-action and song for a humorous look at the wonders of the everyday world.

"The Nashville Coyote" hitches a ride from the California desert all the way to Tennessee. There he has a good ol' time until running into a pack of angry hounds.

the edison twins

*Series starring
Andrew Sabiston,
Marnie McPhail,
Sunny Besen-Thrasher*

Stop, look—and think scientifically! That's the formula for teen twins

Annie and Tom Edison's (Marnie McPhail, Andrew Sabiston) success in solving neighborhood mysteries.

In "Let Them Eat Cake," beginning May 4, a cake-baking competition inspires Annie to pit her scientific cooking skills against Tom's all-thumbs pastry-making techniques. But the twins' plans go to the dogs when their kid brother's canine walking service gets away from him!

When the Edisons find a tiny simian hidden among their groceries in "Monkey in the Middle," starting May 18, they don't realize he is the target of two treasure hunters. These greedy villains think the little ape can lead them to a diamond mine—and they make desperate plans to steal him!

DIVE INTO THE WORLD OF THE BEAVER! WILDERNESS BOUND...from Survival Anglia

Mother beaver raises her family in a snug underwater lodge

Series

Let the world's top wildlife cinematographers take you into the heart of the wilderness for an intimate look at the creatures who call it home.

This month, you'll dive beneath a river's winter ice to explore "The World of the Beaver" with the award-winning camera team of Des and Jen Bartlett.

"We filmed underwater, because that's where the beavers are totally without fear. They let you get as close as you like," explains Des. "I filmed them as they swam alongside of me, and they took no notice. What you see on the screen is beavers behaving absolutely naturally."

You'll be fascinated by the life story of one beaver, dubbed "Castor," from his birth to fatherhood. His dangerous encounters with fur trappers, marauding lions, and grizzly bears are captured in dramatic, fast-moving footage.

Henry Fonda narrates this ultimate portrait of the beaver, which took 18 months to film in Wyoming's Rockies and Tetons.

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Friends,

May is such a big month for The Disney Channel! I don't have enough space to mention all the programs I think you'll find worthwhile, but here are a few suggestions.

My husband and I intend to find time to watch "The Undergrads." I've seen a "rough cut" of the film and look forward to sharing the humor and sentiment with him. I wouldn't miss enjoying "Pete's Dragon" with our three year old, and I want to be sure that both she and our little one get to see "Dumbo's Circus."

Because we've improved our program schedule, our family will need to spend a few minutes reviewing it so we don't miss our favorite shows. (You might want to do that too. See page 4.)

You know, as I look over all the excellent viewing that's available, I'm really glad we have The Disney Channel in our home for the kids—and for us. The best news is that every month it gets better!

Talk to you soon.

Sincerely,

Linda

THE MAGAZINE HELPS EAGER READERS

The viewers in our household range in age from two to 55 years, and Disney has something for all of us. We enjoy the Magazine. The article "25 Ways to Grow an Eager Reader" in the January issue was especially informative and interesting. I found the list of books grouped by age particularly helpful. Thank you for your high standards!

AN ICEBERG FLOATS ONTO THE CHANNEL

We have heard about a very talented man called Michael Iceberg who plays his "Iceberg" machine at Walt Disney World. Could you run a special on him? I think many people would be interested in seeing him on TV.

Michael Glowacki
Cheektowaga, NY

You're in luck! "Michael Iceberg in Concert" premieres this month!

KEEP THOSE CLASSIC WESTERNS COMING!

We enjoy watching The Disney Channel very much. But what happened to Roy Rogers? One of the reasons we decided to take The Channel was to watch his show. We especially like the old Westerns.

The Hughes Family
Dallas, Tx

We're glad you liked the Roy Rogers and Dale Evans "Happy Trails" films, and we'll send your request for more of their shows to our Acquisitions department. In the meantime, we're sure you'll find "Hopalong Cassidy," our new series of classic Westerns, equally enjoyable!

GOOD CHEER FOR POOH CORNER FANS

Thank you for the daily airings of "Welcome to Pooh Corner." My daughters Molly (4) and Kate (2) select it over anything else, and I find its calmness, order, and good cheer quite refreshing.

Are there any recordings of "Pooh Corner" songs available? The girls would very much like to have some of them around.

Carol S. Long
Salem, OR

We're in the process of producing an album of songs from "Welcome to Pooh Corner," but it's not yet available. Watch for details.

Now there's more good cheer for your daughters and other "Pooh Corner" fans! This month we're premiering "Dumbo's Circus," a show created just for them.

THE BLACK ARROW HITS THE SPOT

You've done it once again. The movie "Black Arrow" was superb! The costumes were beautiful and the acting was great. We are so happy to have a Channel like yours to bring true entertainment back to the household. Mr. Disney would be proud of you all!

Hearing the Seagulls Cry
Watching the water gently splash against the sand,
Looking in the distance,
Beyond the noises of waves or whispers.
Clouds silently flee the sky
into what lurks behind the seen, Gently swaying palms greet whatever looks.
Hearing the seagulls cry.

Resting on a rock, looking at the sea
Wishing all there is to wish,
then waiting quietly.
Water's all around me,
gentle currents here and there,
Waves splash against the shore,
To see if I would care.

DUMBO'S CIRCUS

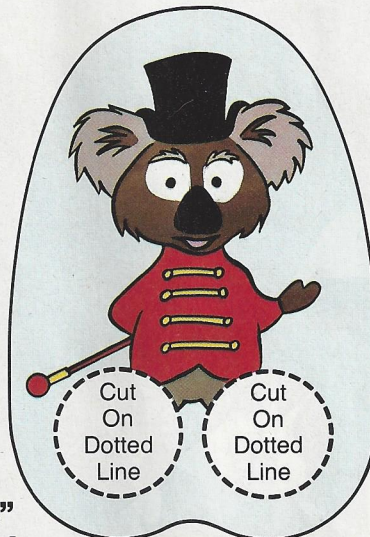

Be part of the show
using these finger puppets.

DUMBO
The star of the show

The circus barker

FAIR DINKUM
The ringmaster

To Make Puppets:

1. Cut around each picture on the heavy black line. If you want to make your puppets last longer, glue them to lightweight cardboard such as a file folder.

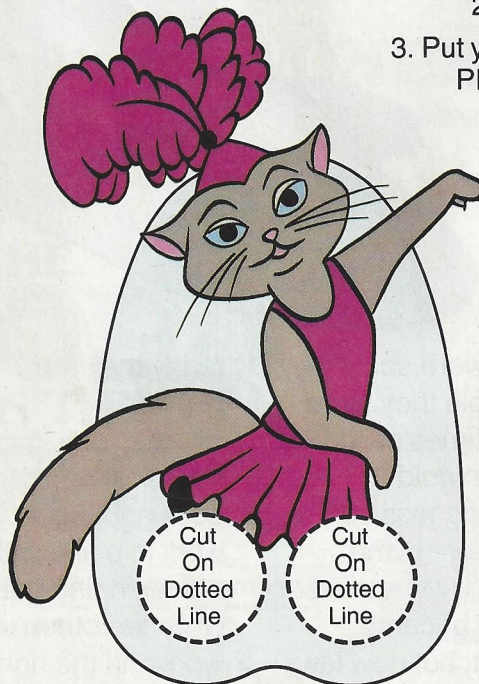

2. Cut out the dotted circles.

3. Put your fingers through the holes and—PRESTO!—you're ready to go!

Join Dumbo
and his friends
under the big top
on "Dumbo's Circus"
every day!

Animal Fancier's Fact Sheet

Clip and save this page in your "Wilderness Bound" folder. Watch for more "Animal Fancier's Facts".

Did you know?

- Beavers are descendants of prehistoric mammals called "castoroides" which weighed up to 800 pounds. The modern beaver is about 3 to 4 feet long (including the tail) and weighs up to 60 pounds at adulthood. It is the largest member of the rodent family in the Northern Hemisphere and the second largest in the world. (The capybara of South America is the largest.)

- Beavers played an important role in the settlement of North America, leading trappers further and further west in search of their fur. Beaver pelts were so valuable they were sometimes called "brown gold." Trapping was so extensive in the 1800s that beavers nearly became extinct, but new laws protected them, and today they are plentiful.

- Beavers are active at dusk and night. They work in pairs, with one standing guard while the other works. In the right place, beavers do a lot of good. Their dams help conserve water. In the wrong place, their dams can flood roads and cropland, causing damage. If this happens, Forestry agents sometimes relocate the beavers.
